

The children designed their own clay tile for a day in the creation story. They then made them and decorated them with paint.